Riddick, Tenney, Suilivan and McDougali, who have been on the injured list for several weeks, have all been out for the past week, and it looks as if their rest has done them good, as they all appear to be getting into the best of condition again. Cooke will probably be out of the game, and his place will be filled by Winston, who played on the scrubs last year, and shows signs of making a good man in this position, having participated in parts of several games this year.

The whole backfield is showing great form in the serimmages held each afternoon. Tenney's shoulder seems to be all right again, and he will be depended on to go through the line of the Generals, while Riddlek and Sullivan will both be back at their old positions at the naves again, these two men being the best ground gainers on the Red and White team. VanBrocklin at quarter has proven one of the most consistent men on the team, and is proving a great general, showing good head work and ability to carry the bail. The improvement of the team has been marked during the past week, and with three more days of practice before they leave for Norfolk the varsity will be in the best of condition to enter in this last and important contest.

Has Better Team.

Having drawn this analogy between the stoics of the East and the enthusiasts of the South, it may as well be written now as later that Hampdensidery won from Randolph-Macon yesterday, largely because Hampdensidery has a better feotball than did Randolph-Macon.

The bald assertion that Hampdensiders with the is capable of showing.

This principle, expressed above, is the working basis of the efforts of the feotration to interest the city officials in the building of a municipal clubhouse at Byrd Park. There is not a young man in Richmond but that would be glad to bring out the best that is in him. No young man wants to be a weakling; on the other hand, physical strength, obtained through exercise, helps not only bodily vigor, but moral in cutdeor exercise, because the field of play was acroses the street or right adolph-Macon.
